Hello Steve,

I have sufficient quantities of AgroRemed and I can aerate overnight over here. Can you let me know the volumes we would need and if you would like in 5 gallon buckets or in 55 gallon drums? We will be ready next Monday.

That will be good timing, I am trying to schedule the injections for Monday and Tuesday of next week (June 5 and 6). If I am able to schedule for the June 5 and 6, does that work for you? Good Morning Steve,

1. Yes the property owner is paying for this.
2. Regarding the work plan, it is our proposal to apply our products based on the existing data and treat the hot spots identified in the report. We would like to make use of the window of warm temperatures available for maximum effectiveness. Three weeks after the first application of AgroRemed in the soil, characterization of the soil will be carried out. There will be additional injection of AgroRemed if required.
3. We will be obtaining an approval from EPA for groundwater application separately.
4. Based on the existing information, we will be preparing a plan for application of AgroRemed for approval.

Please let me know your thoughts.

Gentlemen,

It appears that you may be injecting some of this product into the groundwater. If so, you will need to get prior approval from the EPA. Let me know if you need any more information regarding that process.

Also, is there any indication that this product will work on chlorinated products? Is the property owner paying for this?

Steve, you had discussed a work plan. As I said before, I don't think that it is necessary at this time. I recommend, however, that once characterization is complete, and before you apply this product, that we talk.

Thanks, and let me know if you have questions.

Hello Steve and Ryan,

Happy Memorial Day.

Steve is correct and in the current situation we will be using 2 products namely AgroRemed for soil and HydroRemed for groundwater contamination. I am attaching below a few case studies for these products. Recently EPS of VT has closed a project using AgroRemed in PA.

1. Pilot Project: AgroRemed has consistently shown that the contamination in soil is reduced by more than 90% in soil and this has been proved in the pilot project carried out under supervision of Virginia DEQ. The project was limited to only two sampling events one on 10th day and second sample on 20th day and was closed on 20th day.

2. A Polishing Tool: AgroRemed has been used as a polishing tool for residual contamination at gas station releases in VA and the DEQ has issued an NFA for the PC.

3. Groundwater Contamination at a Gas station in PA: The report is a large file and is available as a pdf document as a part of the link.

4. NFA report from NYDEC for groundwater cleanup: This is a report from NY DEC regarding remediation of groundwater contamination at a gas station site.

There are other reports on our site showing successful application of both these products.

Please feel free to contact me.

Ryan,

I am working with Satya Ganti on developing and implementing a scope of work for characterization and remediation of the chlorinated solvent contamination at the above referenced site.

I have reviewed the final report that was disapproved, as well as several correspondence (the disapproval/comment letter and email comments sent to Paul Nachlas) from the Department.

I was hoping to speak with you about this project to aid in the development of my scope of work.

Please let me know if you are available for a phone call sometime in the near future (hopefully this week).

In order to be ready for the injections as soon as possible, I would like to call in a notification to the Pennsylvania One Call System (POCS) today. This is notification required by law at least 72 hours (3 days) before we start drilling.

So if I place the notification today, we will be clear to drill by Friday.

That will be good timing, I am trying to schedule the injections for Monday and Tuesday of next week (June 5 and 6). If I am able to schedule for the June 5 and 6, does that work for you? You are able to get us the agforemed? Will you be aerating the agforemed, or do you want me to take care of that process as well?

Good Morning Steve,

1. Yes the property owner is paying for this.

2. Regarding the work plan, it is our proposal to apply our products based on the existing data and treat the hot spots identified in the report. We would like to make use of the window of warm temperatures available for maximum effectiveness. Three weeks after the first application of AgroRemed in the soil, characterization of the soil will be carried out. There will be additional injection of AgroRemed if required.

3. We will be obtaining an approval from EPA for groundwater application separately.

4. Based on the existing information, we will be preparing a plan for application of AgroRemed for approval.

Please let me know your thoughts.

Gentlemen,

It appears that you may be injecting some of this product into the groundwater. If so, you will need to get prior approval from the EPA. Let me know if you need any more information regarding that process. Also, is there any indication that this product will work on chlorinated products? Is the property owner paying for this?

Steve, you had discussed a work plan. As I said before, I don't think that it is necessary at this time. I recommend, however, that once characterization is complete, and before you apply this product, that we talk.

Thanks, and let me know if you have questions.

Hello Steve and Ryan,

Happy Memorial Day.

Steve is correct and in the current situation we will be using 2 products namely AgroRemed for soil and HydroRemed for groundwater contamination. I am attaching below a few case studies for these products. Recently EPS of VT has closed a project using AgroRemed in PA.

1. Pilot Project: AgroRemed has consistently shown that the contamination in soil is reduced by more than 90% in soil and this has been proved in the pilot project carried out under supervision of Virginia DEQ. The project was limited to only two sampling events one on 10th day and second sample on 20th day and was closed on 20th day.
2. A Polishing Tool: AgroRemed has been used as a polishing tool for residual contamination at gas station releases in VA and the DEQ has issued an NFA for the PC.
3. Groundwater Contamination at a Gas station in PA: The report is a large file and is available as a pdf document as a part of the link.
4. NFA report from NYDEC for groundwater cleanup: This is a report from NY DEC regarding remediation of groundwater contamination at a gas station site.

There are other reports on our site showing successful application of both these products.

Please feel free to contact me.

Thanking you,

Good Morning Steve,

That is great!

Yes the AgroRemed will be aerated and kept ready on Tuesday. Would you be needing AgroRemed at 8.00 am and can you arrange to pick it up before that? I will be there at the site once AgroRemed is picked up.

Ryan,

I think an on-site meeting would be best. I could possibly be available tomorrow late-morning/early afternoon, but I am off on vacation the rest of the week (Wednesday through Friday).

The week of 10/9 is pretty busy for me, but I could make a late-morning/early-afternoon meeting work for Tuesday 10/9 or Friday 10/13.

The week of 10/16 is wide open for me.

Let me know how any of these dates align with your schedule, and we'll go from there.

Ryan,

The company is Sarva Bio Remed, LLC. The website is <http://sarvabioremed.com/>

There is a variety of products, I believe we would be using the AgroRemed, VapoRemed, and HydroRemed, but I am not absolutely sure.

Satya Ganti is the individual responsible for the exact solutions we will be utilizing.

I have Satya copied on this email for convenience.

Satya – Can you let Mr. Carr know which solution(s) we will be utilizing for the in-situ remediation at the 2331 Plaza site.

Thanks!

Ryan,

I am working with Satya Ganti on developing and implementing a scope of work for characterization and remediation of the chlorinated solvent contamination at the above referenced site.

I have reviewed the final report that was disapproved, as well as several correspondence (the disapproval/comment letter and email comments sent to Paul Nachlas) from the Department.

I was hoping to speak with you about this project to aid in the development of my scope of work.

Please let me know if you are available for a phone call sometime in the near future (hopefully this week).

Thank you in advance for your time!

Enjoy your morning,

To: "Carr, Ryan" &lt;rcarr@pa.gov&gt;, Steve Vedder &lt;SVedder@epsofvermont.com&gt;

Good Morning Ryan,

My mistake. US EPA has listed all our products as AKA and you will be able to see the same in the link <https://www.epa.gov/emergency-response/spillremed-mariner> and after getting their approval we have added as a disclaimer. Since the primary product is SpillRemed (Marine), we are using that as our disclaimer. We have given trade names different for different application as in our first experience, although the customer purchased for a particular application, he did not use because of the trade name SpillRemed and since there was no spill and since it was for a residential application. At that time our marketing consultant suggested we give application based names and inquire if EPA would list as AKA and hence this was done.

I have downloaded the EPA document and will be reviewing the information in the 144 page paper. It looks as if the link for the report has been sent twice. I was going through the flow chart on the common degradation pathways and it gives a good idea on the possible breakdown products that would confirm how the remediation is progressing. I would like to clarify here that, in the case of residual contamination in soil, I do not expect the process to follow the proposed chart as the residual may not contain significant of chlorinated compounds. However, it is my belief the breakdown processes described in all the reports should be more evident in groundwater with free NAPL. I have not yet worked on any such sites and I feel confident the flow chart will help me in any future projects.

Finally, I wanted to thank you both for taking time out to be with us and offer your valuable guidelines. I have not been able to reach out to the Realtor yet and tomorrow I may be able to discuss with him about the sales contract so that we can try to delineate the contamination both in soil and groundwater and also be able to identify the source in a definitive way. This being my first experience in the field, discussing with you all gave me a better perspective.

Thank you all and Steve you too.

Gmail - Re: Plaza 2331 - 2331 East Market Street, York, PA

Thanks for having us out at the site. I have linked an EPA reference regarding in situ bioremediation of chlorinated solvents. I have also attached a simple diagram showing the reductive dechlorination process.

A few years ago, I made a sheet concerning water quality parameters and what you may see when bioremediation is occurring. Please note, this is just a guide and not endorsed by the PA DEP or anyone else for that matter. However, it has some references/links that you may find helpful. This is not a research project, and does not represent original research. The validity of the links and the information presented here has not been verified. This is not policy, but you may use as a starting off point in your own research.

Finally, I have attached a link to the MSDS for the product used at the site. Please read the disclaimer at the bottom. Is this current? If so, it does not appear that EPA approves this product. It also seems to reference oil spills, which this release is not. Do you have paperwork from the EPA saying that you may use this? Could you provide it?

Thanks, and let me know if you have any questions,
